Pastors Corner

Sometimes we priests joke that our lives would be much easier if it weren't for the people. Truthfully, it is serving the Lord through the people and being a witness to their Christianity that makes our priesthood wonderful. One of the most edifying aspects of being a priest is my continual exposure to the active Christianity so many embrace. People will call me to tell me about sick or hurting parishioners. I'll go to the homes of the elderly and find others there cheerfully caring for them. People are always asking us if there are any particular families they can sponsor not only at Thanksgiving and Christmas, but also throughout the year. We reach across the ocean to Malawi to help our sister parish. And anytime there has been any sort of crisis in one of our families, people have always come forward to offer to take care of the children, cook for the family, etc. I also know that there is a wide range of people in this parish that I merely have to say "we need a special favor" and they will gladly help out.

As Christians we have to recognize that none of this should be exceptional. We can't just say we are Christians. We have to live our Christianity. Living our Christianity may not always be public, but, and this sounds like a contradiction but isn't, living our Christianity is always evident, even when not public. For example, a senior citizen may be very generous to someone and no one, not even the recipient of the generosity, knows who is providing for the person. However, that senior citizen's life, his or her concern, his or her conversation, is not self centered but shows a concern for others.

All of us want to be happy. Jesus came to bring happiness to the world. We can be happy if we follow the Lord. He gave us the ideal and example by giving himself for us. We are all our happiest when we are able to give to others. If we want to be happy, we have to follow the Lord.
